Whether it's housebreaking or biting, there are actionable steps you can take now to set your puppy on the path to becoming a well-behaved family member. So, read on for a smoother training journey and a harmonious life with your furry friend.

Here are the 5 tips and tricks for puppy training success:

1. Potty training
 - a. Set up your desired potty area, put up a pen so they can sniff and wander in a designated area for potty breaks
 - b. Reward right after each successful potty in the desired area, and give the treat right where they went potty, not in the house after the fact.
 - c. Don't punish accidents, this will make your dog fear your presence and can cause them to sneak off to potty instead.
2. Puppy play biting and nipping
 - a. Make sure you have toys with you at all times, and in every room where your puppy will be
 - b. Make sure your puppy gets adequate sleep including naps during the day
 - c. Puppy-safe teething and chew toys should be offered often
 - d. Walk away when teeth get involved in play
3. Chewing
 - a. Make sure your home is set up to be a canine habitat, meaning if you were a puppy, what would you chew on in your home?
 - b. Put up a big pen for your dog to hang out in when you can't supervise them
 - c. Have lots of different kinds of toys, chews, and games for them to play
4. Obedience skills
 - a. Puppyhood is the ideal time to solidify a few key life skills such as recall, not pulling on the leash, and learning to be patient for the things they want
5. Confinement training
 - a. It is vital for all domesticated animals to get accustomed to being confined in one way or another.
 - b. When at the groomers, at the vet, in the car, and for safety reasons, they will need to be confined no matter what, so it's best to teach them as young as possible.
 - c. Make these mini-sessions short, positive and frequent
